A: Frontal view of four-winged Pantheos on the back of a roaring lion striding left. The lion's tail is snake-headed. The Pantheos has a bird's tail projecting to right, both arms bent in elbow and holding scepters with a crossing notch at the top and bottom. Face framed by animal protomes, head adorned with the hemhem-crown. In the free field to the left and right of the head, two six-pointed stars. Rest of the field filled with letters in concentric lines.

B: In the upper field: three figures standing above a tabula ansata. On the left: a female figure wearing a long garment, head to right, left hand raised to mouth (Sigé). In the middle: a nude male figure; on the right: a female figure in a long garment, right hand raised to mouth, left hand lowered beside the body. Both latter figures turning towards Sigé, all wearing headbands. In the free field around them: four six-pointed stars. Inscription within the tabula ansata in one line: Ἀβρασαῶξ → Ἀβρασαῶξ. Below: five lines of illegible letters.

C: Illegible letters or characteres.
